I shifted to the city from Portugal in 2015. And, gradually, I fell in love with it. The crowded streets, narrow lanes and hustle-bustle of the city surprised and enchanted me at the same time. I am fond of the old city as it feels like a place which has everything: heritage, food and a character of its own. I love the the celebration of food at Manek Chowk, the kebabs and mutton samosas at Mirzapur, the vibe of Lal Darwaza, the warmth of the people, the distinctive architectural style and institutes like NID and IIM which combined made me feel at home here. I have to give a special mention to khichdi-kadhi, — the simplicity and taste of this dish is out of this world! Such is my Amdavad.
