We all love a good selfie point and some of the city campuses boast of having cool selfie spots. Collegians love to click selfies against these interesting backdrops and create memories that will last a lifetime. While few colleges have selfie spots like manicured lawns, long winding staircase or graffiti walls, in other colleges students love to pose near the old structures in their campuses. After all, young collegians love their share of likes on their social media feed. Ahmedabad Times sets out to explore the famous spots for selfies in colleges.

My friends and I have our own little ritual of clicking pictures at the Grand Staircase in our college at the beginning of every year. The Grand Staircase is a famous spot in the campus and it connects the building to the canteen area. Most students love creating memories at that spot. Other areas which are also common among students for clicking selfies are the basketball court and in the canteen near the Graffiti wall.

Samvad area of IIT-Gandhinagar is where students prefer to take selfies

There are several spots and spaces on the college campus which are famous and people generally prefer to click selfies and pictures at those spots. The Samvad Area also known as Central Vista is the most famous spot in the college where both international students and Indian students love clicking pictures. The fountain area and the area near the new canteen along with the four jai mandaps are quite popular.
